

Monthly Inflation Review • January, 2021

In January 2021, the inflation rate¹ reached 0.7%, having increased by 0.1 percentage point (p.p.) compared to the same month of last year.

The prevailing inflation was mainly occurred due to the rise in prices for foodstuffs by 1.0%, non-food products by 0.4%. The prices and tariffs for paid services to the population in January of this year remained unchanged.

In the structure of foodstuffs, a rise in prices for such consumer goods as potatoes on 14.7%, carrots on 11.8%, lamb 0.2%, milk 1.5%, eggs 3.0%, granulated sugar 0.2%, apples 0.6%, pears 0.8%, peas 2.9%, grapes 3.8%, tomatoes 18.6%, cucumbers 19.0%. This growth is due to the influence of seasonal factors.

Along with this, there was a decrease in prices for a number of foodstuffs such as first grade flour - 0.5%, rice -0.5%, cottonseed oil -0.4% and onions -4.9%.

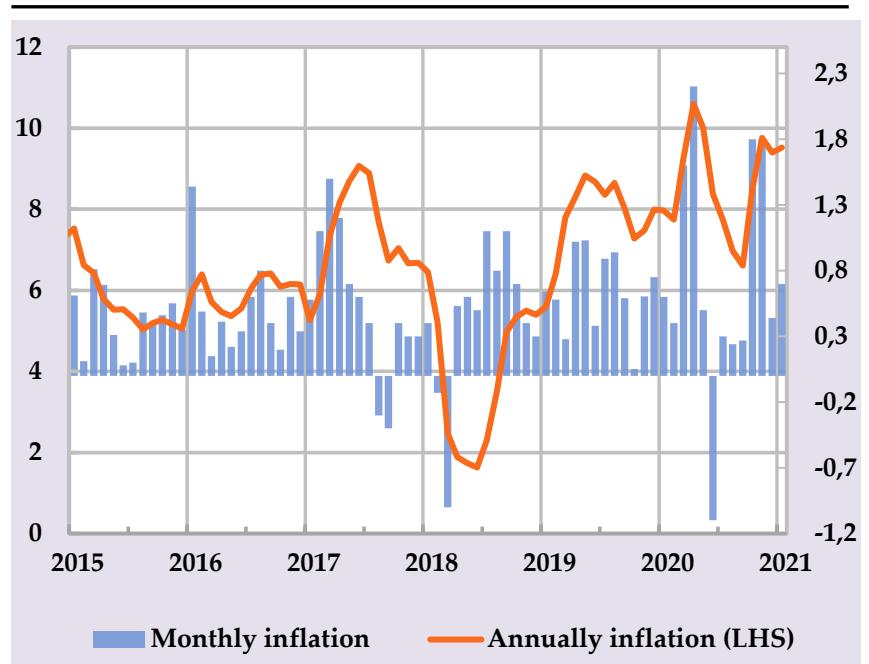

Among non-food products, in January 2021, prices for textiles increased by 1.4%, diesel fuel 3.8% and AI-92 gasoline by 7.6%.

Thus, the annual inflation in January 2021 reached 9.5%, which is more for 1.5 percentage points than in the same period of last year.

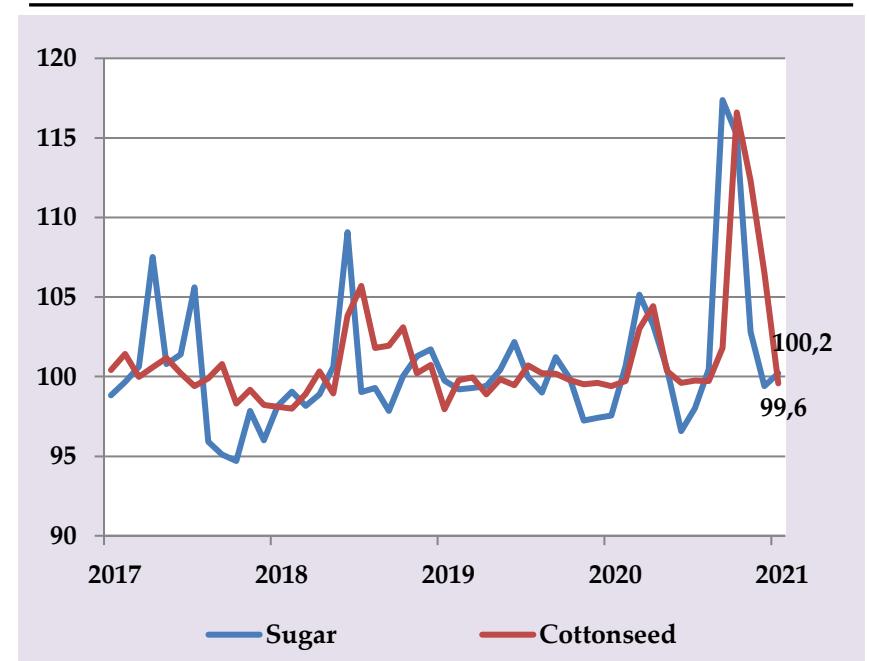

The analysis shows that inflation rate increased behind the targeted range mainly due to seasonal factors, external pressures and supply factors related to the spread of the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic, which caused a decline in supply of a certain consumer goods (granulated sugar, vegetable oil and a rise in their prices in the exporting countries), restrictions on the international trade, reduced competitiveness in domestic markets.

The level of core inflation, which to some extent reflects monetary factors, remained unchanged in January of this year and reached 4.7 % on the annualized basis, having increased by 2.6 percentage points compared to the same period of last year. This was mainly influenced by the increase in prices for finished foodstuffs (such as vegetable oil and bakery products).

In order to prevent additional pressures on the inflation, the National Bank of Tajikistan will continue to implement a balanced monetary policy using monetary instruments.
